

FOSTER'S DOUBLE DEALING.

We Plays Fast and Loose With the Knights of Labor.

ACCUSED OF TREACHEROUS CONDUCT.

He Makes an Agreement With Them Which He Breaks—Crisp and the Speaker—Ship—Capital Notes.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 1.—[Special.]—The controversy of the Knights of Labor with the Treasury in regard to the reinstatement of discharged plate-printers has been confused and misrepresented through the twistings of Secretary Foster. During yesterday he told to different parties three different stories as to the status of the controversy. In the first place, about noon he informed inquiring newspaper men that he had been "fearless and firm" in dealing with the representatives of the Knights; that he informed them the department would not yield in its position. Soon afterwards Mr. Foster dictated an interview to an Evening Star reporter, taking the same ground and explaining his attitude. Meantime he had made an appointment with Devereux and Cavanagh, of the Knights' executive board, for a conference at 3 P. M. after the cabinet meeting. The meeting did not take place until about 3:30. The first thing Foster did was to inform the Knights that the Star of the afternoon would contain what purported to be an interview with him, but that it was a weekly fabrication from top to bottom, and he would see the Press Association did not use it. He then entered into negotiations with the Knights who submitted a memorandum of their demands slightly modified. Foster said he would have to confer with Chief Meredith, of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Meredith was summoned and after a whispered conference with the Secretary the written proposition of the Knights was accepted. Its main provision required the reinstatement of the discharged plate-printers. As the conference broke up Secretary Foster said: "I will give orders to have that agreement carried out as early as possible."

The Knights' representatives immediately reported to their associates that the fight had been won. NO AGREEMENT. During the evening Secretary Foster sent word to the press associations that an agreement had been reached, and that the Knights of Labor and the Federation of Labor he "washed his hands of the whole thing." Meantime he had gone a few miles in the country to attend a late dinner. After the dinner he returned to the city and in the morning he dictated an interview to a different newspaper man, and last night correspondents were seeking him in every direction for the purpose of getting the truth. If it were possible to obtain the truth from such a source, when he returned to the city it was too late even to try anything to Eastern newspapers. At that late hour Foster said he had not repudiated the Star interview; that he had only informed the Knights that it was erroneous in representing him as having uttered the sentiments quoted to Secretary Foster. It is susceptible of proof that Secretary Foster did in his afternoon interview with the Knights assure them in the most positive manner that he had not uttered a word of the interview; that it was a fabrication. In that assertion he was seconded by his private secretary.

FOSTER'S MISREPRESENTATIONS. After telling the whole story of misrepresentation and fabrication it develops that Secretary Foster did state to more than a dozen men that he had rejected all overtures of the Knights and would grant no concessions; that at the cabinet meeting the subject was discussed and the President and his advisers expressed approval of the attitude of a labor fight on McKinley, and Foster was advised to compromise, or at least temporize; that at his subsequent meeting with the Knights he practically surrendered. But later in the afternoon he received a telegram from Secretary of State Bryan to Attorney-General Watson, of Ohio, who had gone to New York to interview President campers, of the Federation of Labor, and enlist him and his organization in McKinley's behalf. These commissioners replied that "Congress would take the side of McKinley and lead his forces for the Republicans, but that Congress stipulated that no concessions should be made to the Knights of Labor that all their overtures should be rejected and open warfare with them inaugurated." On the next day Secretary Foster repudiated his agreement with the Knights and virtually denounced them as liars.

THE SECRETARY'S TREACHERY. The Times correspondent was the first to inform the Knights, who were assembled at their headquarters, exulting over their victory in the victory of the day. They were astounded and at first refused to credit the information. Upon being convinced they denounced Foster in vigorous terms, but said they would prefer to wait for another interview with him before making public the documentary evidence of the Secretary's duplicity and double dealing. The evidence will be forthcoming and the effect will naturally be to arouse the indignation of the Knights of Labor everywhere and intensify their hostility to the Ohio Republican ticket.

THE AGREEMENT REVOCATED. Messrs. Develin and Cavanagh called upon Secretary Foster today, and he kindly informed them that the agreement made yesterday, which required the reinstatement of the seven discharged plate-printers within fifteen days, could not be carried out. He admitted entering into the agreement, but said the Federation of Labor entered a protest, which convinced him it would be unwise for him to keep faith with the Knights.

Representative Crisp, of Georgia, is in the city, on route to New York, where he will be one of the chief speakers at tomorrow's Fourth of July celebration. Judge Crisp discusses the speakership with his usual discretion. He says it is too far off for anybody to make predictions worthy of consideration, and is gratified that the contest is entirely free from bitterness. He deprecates anything like sectionalism, and says the party should select the most suitable man regardless of the place of residence.

Judge Crisp has received a great deal of attention here, and it is more than ever apparent that he is in the very front rank of speakership candidates. ALL QUIET IN CHINA. Advice has been received at the Navy Department from Admiral Bellamy, commanding the Asiatic Squadron, in regard to the trouble in China. The latest news received are dated June 14th, and indicate that things are generally quiet. There are war-ships of five nations now in China waters, and these he says have a quieting effect upon the trouble. Some element, but he considers it would be dangerous to withdraw them.

The chief cause of the trouble, he says, was the clubbing of a native by a French police officer. The officer was spirited away without trial, which caused much dissatisfaction. Another cause of the trouble, he says, is dissatisfaction with the present government, and the disturbance element is doing

THE KAISER AT AMSTERDAM.

Germany's Young Emperor Arrives at the Capital of Holland.

RECEIVED BY THE QUEEN AND REGENT.

Rumors of Heavy Fighting in Chili—The British Government Will Oppose Amendments to the Irish Land Bill.

(By Cable to the Times.) AMSTERDAM, July 1.—The flotilla escorting the Emperor of Germany and his party arrived here today, accompanied by the Dutch squadron under Vice-Admiral De Josselin De Jong. This squadron consists of the cruisers Konigen Emma Der Nederlanden, 3,400 tons; Van Galen, 2,600 tons; and the Johan Willem Frisco, 3,400 tons; the steel protected cruiser Sumatra, of the Dutch Colonial navy, three armored rams and several armored monitors. The German Emperor, who was on board the Imperial yacht Hohenzollern, entered the harbor at Amsterdam at 11 o'clock, where the yacht will lie during the Emperor's visit. Upon landing at the dock here the Emperor was received by Queen Wilhelmina Helena Paulina Mary, who is only eleven years of age, and by the Queen Regent, Emma Princesse of Waldeck. The Queen and Queen Regent were surrounded by a brilliant gathering of Cabinet ministers, army officers and municipal and other authorities. Among the ministers present were the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Jonkhoeur C. Hartzen, Baron Mackay, Minister of Colonies, Colonel Bergambius, Minister of War, and Admiral Dyernek, Minister of Marine. After the most imposing ceremonies of reception the imperial guests of Holland were escorted to the palace, where they will be entertained during their stay in this city. All the shipping in the harbor and all the main thoroughfares were decorated with flags, and this evening there will be a brilliant illumination in honor of the visit of the young Emperor of Germany.

THE RECEPTION IN LONDON.

LONDON, July 1.—The Duke of Connaught and Edinburgh and the Duke of Clarence will meet Kaiser Wilhelm at 11 o'clock, and the Kaiser will be greeted by the Queen and the Prince of Wales. As the rooms in the castle are not large enough to accommodate the suite many will have to be accommodated at hotels. The military authorities are distracted by the extraordinary requisition for troops for ceremonial purposes. The Prince of Wales had a long interview with the Queen for the purpose of settling a number of perplexing questions of etiquette and precedence. The society paper called Truth says that the boisterous has been without precedent since the marriage of Queen Victoria, and that the Kaiser is a hundred times more exacting and unreasonable than the Russian Emperor Nicholas, who made such trouble then.

THE HEROINE OF MANIPUR.

Mrs. Grimwood Dines With the Queen, and May Receive the Victoria Cross. (By Cable to the Times.) LONDON, July 1.—Mrs. F. St. Clair Grimwood, the widow of Mr. F. St. Clair Grimwood, the British resident at Manipur who lost his life during the massacre at that place in March last, by the Queen's command, had lunch with Her Majesty at Windsor Castle this afternoon. Mrs. Grimwood, it will be remembered, became prominent through the hardships she endured and by her heroic conduct after she escaped from Manipur, in recognition of which the young widow was pensioned and decorated with the red cross of St. John. She has been talking of conferring upon her the Victoria Cross awarded to soldiers, sailors and marines who distinguished themselves brilliantly in the face of the enemy.

In this case Mrs. Grimwood would be the only lady upon whom that honor will have been conferred.

Rumors of Heavy Fighting on Land and Sea Between Huasca and Conquimbo. (By Cable to the Times.) The engagements are said to have occurred both on land and sea, but no particulars have yet been received.

DISCRIMINATING AGAINST FOREIGNERS.

(By Cable to the Times.) LONDON, July 1.—The correspondent of the Daily News at Buenos says a decree has been issued by the Governors of Potosi, Volynia and Kieff, which announces that all foreigners in the provinces must decide between leaving the country or becoming naturalized. In the event of selecting the latter alternative, they must remain in their present domiciles for an unbroken period of ten years.

REGRETS THE BACCARAT REVELATIONS.

(By Cable to the Times.) LONDON, July 1.—The Baptist Association has adopted resolutions regretting the baccarat revelations and declaring that the Prince of Wales instead of posturing as the leader of immoral forces should be the leader and inspiration of the moral forces of the empire.

ROUND IN A LONELY SPOT.

Barney Smith Found Tied to a Tree Starving to Death. ROANOKE, VA., July 1.—Barney Smith, a mechanic employed for some time at the Roanoke Machine Works, disappeared last night, June 15th. He was found today with his hands bound and tied to a tree in a lonely spot in the Blue Ridge mountains ten miles from here.

He was frantic and half-starved and had gnawed the bark from the tree to which he was tied and had bitten off the shrubbery and grass. He was unable to tell how he came to be tied and now lies in a precarious condition. There is no clue to the perpetrators of the deed. The motive is supposed to have been robbery, as Smith was known to have some money on his person when last seen here.

THE DEMOCRATS GO IN.

At the Henrico county office yesterday there was what might be called a grand change. All of the Republicans, who have been there for years, stepped down and out, and a brand new lot of Democrats elected at the last election stepped in their places. No formal exercises were indulged in, but it was a gala day for Democracy.
